POLICY

OBJECTIVE

Lander & Rogers aims to be an industry leader in implementing sustainable business practices that minimise harm and maximise benefit to the environment.

We recognise climate change is impacting our firm, our clients and the communities in which we work.

We are conscious of our place within the broader community and why our business must be authentic, understand its connections and lead and influence innovative responses to climate change. This means not just doing things the way they have always been done but opening our minds and adopting new practices.

We all have an obligation to understand the impact our firm has on the environment and take steps to minimise our environmental footprint, drive behavioural change and increase environmental awareness.

As a provider of professional services our most significant environmental impacts relate to carbon emissions from electricity consumption and business travel, and the effect on natural resources from procuring office supplies and managing waste streams.

This policy sets out a road map for our firm to manage our business in an environmentally responsible manner, to care for the environment in which we live and work, and to sustain its quality for the benefit of future generations.

Finally, it allows us to hold ourselves accountable for our commitment to making positive change.

Application of policy

This policy applies to all permanent, part time and full-time partners and employees and casual employees who have been engaged by Lander & Rogers (our people).

All our people are responsible for ensuring they are aware of how their activities impact the environment, for upholding this policy and for demonstrating respect for the environment in which we live and work.

Purpose and commitment

Lander & Rogers is committed to:

1. setting clear goals for operating our business in an environmentally responsible manner
2. reviewing our actions and measuring our progress
3. being transparent in our accountability to our people, clients and the community
4. driving and influencing behavioural change.

Aims of this policy

This policy will accelerate our understanding of our environmental footprint and ensure we develop systems and/or structures to properly gather information as evidence.

We will continue to benchmark our actions, aligning with UN Sustainable Development Goals, so we have an evidential foundation and clear blueprint for the action we take to tackle sustainable economic growth and climate change.

Structures will be embedded to ensure sustainable practices exist across our business so that we can continually improve and so that the environment sits at the heart of our decision making, integrating the principles of this Environmental Policy and the consideration of the protection of the environment into all business activities.

Understanding of our supply chain will be enhanced and facilitate working to achieve better environmental outcomes through our procurement and actions.

Ensuring we meet and exceed applicable local, state and federal regulatory and legislative requirements and targets will be a priority.

We will focus our actions on these key areas of efficiency:

1. Emissions reduction (electricity consumption and travel)
2. Waste minimisation following the principles of the waste hierarchy
3. Paper and consumables consumption
4. Water conservation

To demonstrate our commitment in these key areas we will:

1. embed leadership within our business to set, measure and monitor our progress
2. provide on-going staff training and opportunities for engagement, creating a working environment that encourages sustainable practices
3. measure and account for our progress in a transparent manner to our people, clients and community so that we continue to learn and improve our actions
4. connect with other organisations and communities to collectively drive behaviour change and achieve progress towards our goals.

Influence

It is not enough for us to focus on our own action. We want to influence change, champion sustainability and align ourselves with other leaders, contributing to greater outcomes and a broader impact for all of us.

We can achieve this by connecting with clients, other law firms, organisations and the broader community.

Accountability

We need to be able to measure and to be transparent about our progress. This includes reviewing and setting objectives and targets in accordance with this policy, monitoring progress and making the necessary changes required for continual improvement.

To do this we must:

1. establish and maintain an Environment Management System (EMS) that identifies our key risks and controls, monitors performance, and provides information to our business
2. undertake to report to AusLSA
3. continue as a signatory to CitySwitch network and fulfil reporting obligations.

We commit to:

1. communicating openly about our policy and our progress towards our goals to our people, clients and our community
2. supporting and maintaining an Environment Committee who is responsible for ensuring our people are properly informed of the Committee's goals as reflective of the broader firm's ethos towards environmental sustainability. We will ensure our people are aware and are held accountable to their personal responsibility as a member of Lander & Rogers to actively engage in the initiatives of the Committee.

Responsibility

Although we are all responsible for our individual action, the firm has appointed a partner to lead the firm's action and be accountable for progress and strategic direction.

This partner also chairs the Environment Committee, which monitors progress, champions change and action and assists to lead the firm's policy. The committee will meet at least quarterly to review and set objectives and targets in accordance with this policy, monitor progress and make the necessary changes required for continual improvement.

The Committee and partner will review this policy annually to ensure continued relevance.
